

What Happens When We Include and Affirm All Students?

All students will:

- Stay in school and graduate.
- Meet with consistent academic and participation success.
- Be proportionately represented across all measures of success and participation.
- Exhibit an increasing sense of self-esteem.
- Exhibit an increasingly positive sense of identity.
- Routinely express pride in their families, heritages, and cultures.
- Identify and connect with adults in their schools.
- Express belief in the possibilities of their futures.
- Interact between and across groups:
  - Cultural
  - Racial
  - Geographic
  - Orientations
  - Genders
  - Class
  - Age
  - Ability/disability
- Successfully navigate their present and future -
  - Be able to explain/recognize power structures and navigate these to their advantage.
  - Be agents of change/access their power as agents of change.
  - Solve problems collaboratively, creatively, persistently, effectively, and constructively.
  - Innovate.
- Trust and have access to positive interactions with administrators at all levels.
- Experience school as a supportive place and not find it adversarial.
